Everything You Need To Know This Week On New York's Art Scene
Critic's Pick, August 2012

In the “The Skin We’re In,” a group of artists have taken 20th century works and reinterpreted them in present-day forms. From video games styled as Hudson River Paintings to inkjet prints of the Frick Collection, this exhibition should offer something worth tweeting about. Artists include Lindsay Lawson, João Enxuto & Erica Love, Stephen Prina, Jon Rafman and Mark Tribe.

Opening Reception: Thursday, August 2, 6-8pm

Dates: August 2-31
